—“My little son, three years of age, was terribly afflicted with scrofula. His head was entirely covered with scrofulous sores, and his body showed many marks of the disease. A few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured him.”—W. K. Becket, Hymera, Ind.

James G. Blaine.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 12.—The Commercial Gazette will publish the following to-morrow: Mr. Ben. Jones, Chairman of the National Republican Committee, has received a letter from Mr. Blaine declining to allow his name to be presented to the National Republican Convention as a candidate for the Presidency. Mr. Jones, when asked whether Mr. Blaine's declination would prevent his friends from nominating him anyhow, said: “As I am Chairman of the National Committee, I do not think it would be proper for me to have anything to say on the subject.”

THE DAYTON DREDGER.

It is Launched with a Rain Storm and Banquet.

On Sunday last there was a large crowd at Dayton to witness the launching of the scow “Dayton,” which was built by Dr. Rae & Son to dredge the Carson river for the amalgam which lies in the river's bed. In spite of the drenching rain several hundred people were present from different parts of the State to witness the launching.

The hour set was 1 o'clock, but at noon a rain set in, and it was finally decided by Mr. Rae to launch her before the time, as the greased ways down which the barge was to glide became so wet that delay was considered dangerous.

The barge was started at 10 minutes to 1, at least a hundred men assisting amid loud cheering. It barely reached the water on account of the delay in the rain, but a couple of hours' work would float her clear.

The craft is eighty feet long and thirty feet wide, with an air tight deck and air compartment between, so that it draws but five inches of water, and when loaded with eighty tons of dredging machinery will not draw over twelve inches.

The idea of the company backing the enterprise is to dredge the sands of the Carson river for the quicksilver that for the past twenty years has been wasting from the mills.

The value of the quicksilver deposits in the Carson river is estimated all the way from fifty to one hundred and twenty millions, being the concentrated refuse of the Comstock ledge, which was wasted by insufficient reduction appliances.

The dredging machinery is of the Hungarian pattern, worked by steam, and lifts a ton of sand per minute. The coarse gravel is discharged through a long pipe and deposited on the banks of the river, while the finer portion is run along the surface of the dredger through sluices, and is there secured by the ordinary quicksilver method.

In a day the machine will lift six hundred tons of sand and handle it. The sand is worth all the way from two to six dollars a ton, and the expense of lifting and sluicing it is estimated at 13½ cents per ton.

The scow draws at the most a foot of water, but there are places in the river where the water is not over six inches deep. This has always been considered an obstacle to the success of the scheme. The builder, Dan Chisholm, informed the APPEAL representative that the dredger excavated its own channel as it went along, and there would always be at least two feet of water for it to float in.

Dr. Rae has explored and assayed the channel for twelve miles below Dayton, and there is not a foot of sand in all that distance that will not assay at least two dollars a ton. The concentrates found in the bed of the river runs as high as $600 a ton. The slumgullion from the mills contains something that forms on the bed of the river like a concrete, and nothing passes through it. All the assays come from above this concrete, and not below.

The enterprise is backed by Philadelphia capital, and so far not a cent has been asked of anyone in Dayton. In spite of this fact and the fact that the company has disbursed thousands in the town, a good many people there have predicted nothing but failure for an enterprise which all practical engineers fully endorse.

After launching there was a banquet at the Union Hotel, with tables spread for about one hundred guests. Mr. Rae and his wife presided, and there were speeches and toasts by Frank Fielding, assayer of the bonanza mines, Dr. Huylett, J. R. Shaw, Hon. Wm. Shirley, J. L. Campbell, G. W. Likins, the APPEAL representative and others.

And thus a couple of hours were very delightfully spent in celebrating an event which marks an epoch in the history of silver mining in Nevada.

The Most Agreeable

As well as the most effective method of dispelling Headaches, Colds, and Fevers, or Cleansing the System, is by taking a few doses of the pleasant California liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs. For sale by Geo. C. Thaxter, agent.

WEDDING DRESS.

The Nuptials of Josiah Moore and Miss Sarah Calvert.

Married: At Halfway House, Virginia City road, February 12, 1888, by the Rev. George R. Davis, Josiah Moore, of the Eureka Mill, and Miss Sarah Calvert, eldest daughter of Mr. Thomas Calvert.

Such a wedding as the above was never known in the vicinity of the Mound House. The place was packed with the friends of the happy pair, and after the knot had been tied the banquet board was spread. The table was loaded with every delicacy that the best cooks in the State could furnish, and there was every variety of wine that ever came from the grape. The fun was fast and furious till morning, and the dancing and hilarity was still in progress when the sun rose. Calvert believes in doing a wedding up in brown shape, and says he has some more daughters he proposes to start in life with just as lively a time. The following is a list of the presents:

Mr. T. D. Calvert Fine young filly.
Mrs. T. D. Calvert Silver castor.
Mrs. James Sumner, Silver City Cream set and pincushion.
Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Woodbury, Empire City China tea set, Bohemian vases and wild rose mustard set.
Mrs. Maggie Burton, Carson City—Rose toothpick holder.
Miss Mamie Calvert—Silver cheese knife.
Miss Helen Pursley—Hand-painted guitar.
Mr. H. J. Crampton, Virginia—Lemonade set.
Miss Hattie Calvert—Silver butter knife.
The groom's present to the bride was a handsome set of jewelry: Gold watch and chain, diamond ring and gold bracelets.
Mrs. F. A. Teasland—Butterfly tidy.
Messrs. McEwen and Murphy, Eureka mill—Silver castor.
Master John Calvert—Gold pencil.
Mrs. Dr. Kirby, Virginia—Plush toilet case.
Miss Mamie E. Moore, Virginia—Silver napkin rings.
Mrs. J. Magee, San Francisco—Box of wedding flowers.
Thomas Calvert, Jr.—Silver sugar spoon.
Joseph Calvert—Pair of China candlesticks.
Charles Calvert—China cup and saucer.
Misses Louisa and Clara Woodbury, Empire—Mustache cup and saucer to the groom.
Master Clarence Burton—Oak bucket.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Dr. Harmon has a few Words of Interest for the Carson People.

As I intend to leave Carson on Sunday next, February 19, I will make known a few facts to the public. During my stay in this city I have noticed many children troubled with sore eyes, and their parents are unaware of the cause. Some are near-sighted and others have over-strained their eyes. Therefore, I desire the public to know that they now have an opportunity to be examined by my instrument, the only one of the kind now in existence. I make no charge for examination. If your eyes are good, I will not attempt to convince you to the contrary. No person with good eyes will be imposed upon.

It is a well-known fact that people who are obliged to hold the book or paper more than fourteen inches from the eye should not fail to use glasses, for the reason that the sight is failing, and the longer one waits the worse it is for him. A great many people assert that there is no difference between pebble and glass. I want such people to know that I have 800 pair of the finest glasses manufactured, but I am fighting against glass. It is impossible to take sand and melt it so as not to have any sand in the glass, but pebble is clear because it is a crystal.

During my stay here I have met two gentlemen who informed me that they purchased glass spectacles from a peddler ten years ago, and by accident got pebbles, and the same are good to-day. Of course there are exceptions in all cases, and these are among the few I have met.

Again I desire to impress upon the public that I will positively leave Carson on Sunday next.
